

Ibrahim Vargas

Ibrahim Vargas , son of a former Moorish corregidor of Hornachos , in Extremadura (Spain), was the first governor of the political entity that would become the Republic of Bouregreg [1] .

Recently arrived on the left bank of the Bouregreg , he had first embraced the Christian religion , to then convert to Islam . He was a famous privateer . Among his descendants, the current Bargach of Rabat were, and continue to be, one of the influential families of the Moroccan capital [2] .

Representation of Salé and the mouth of the Bouregreg at the time of Ibrahim Vargas.

Summary

Notes and references

1. Ibrahim Vargas in Le Monde
2. Ibrahim Vargas on Web Islam, comunidad virtual

See also

Related articles

- Corsairs of Salé
- Former families of Rabat
- Expulsion of the Moriscos from Spain
- Republic of Bouregreg

External links

- " Rabat / Salé, the pirate conquest " (https://www.lemonde.fr/voyage/article/2009/09/01/rabat-sale-la-conquete-pirate_1339693_3546.html) , on Le Monde ,1st September 2009 (accessed April 27, 2010)

- (es) " Moriscos de Hornachos y República de Rabat " (http://www.webislam.com/?idt=12376) , on webislam.com (accessed April 27, 2010)
